3. FOR WHAT PURPOSES DOES LOWELL COLLECT AND PROCESS PERSONAL DATA?	We process and save personal data about our customers, clients and job applicants for different purposes. These purposes are: 1) collecting outstanding invoices and debts; 2) lending and granting payment time for paying for purchases (invoicing and instalment service); 3) providing credit information services for other companies; 4) customer relationship management and marketing; and 5) recruiting new employees. We only process your data when we have legal grounds to do so. We also process personal data when we carry out invoicing activities on the behalf of another company as their service partner. In these situations, we act as the processor of personal data. More information about the processing of data can be obtained from the invoicing company (data controller). COLLECTION We process personal data when a payment is not made in accordance with the terms and conditions of the original agreement. In this case, the purpose of processing personal data is to collect an outstanding payment or debt on the basis of an assignment issued by our customer, i.e. an invoicer/creditor. Alternatively, we may have purchased the outstanding debt for collection purposes. Personal data can be used in different situations and for different purposes in the collection process. We process data to carry out voluntary and legal collection processes, including matters related to criminal activities, disputes, insolvency and applications. We also process data to process payments and when we send reports to our clients, the authorities (e.g. execution authorities and courts of law) and credit information companies that maintain a register of payment defaults. Good customer service is a key part of our collection services. We process your personal data to handle and authenticate customer service situations, offer payment options and agree upon payment arrangements. We also use customer data to understand customer behaviour by means of surveys and statistics, and to develop our services and customer service channels from our customers' points of view. This also includes personnel training. We process personal data in profiling to facilitate collection planning. In practice, this means that we can carry out collection measures by means of scoring that has been produced on the basis of customer history data and predicts future payment behaviour. We also process data to analyse debts purchased for collection purposes. In addition, the legislation sets obligations related to the identification of customers, accounting and the prevention of money laundering. We need to process personal data in order to fulfil these obligations.

Personal data related to the payment of debts we have purchased is also processed in decision-making related to our lending activities.

LENDING

We grant one-time credit for paying for and financing purchases through our invoicing and instalment services. Here, personal data is processed for lending purposes, i.e. for granting credit or payment time. In practice, data is processed to make initial and final credit decisions. Credit decisions are made on the basis of the automated evaluation of data. We also process your data when we report our decisions to our merchant customers.

Our customer service serves customers in matters related to credits and payments. In this case, we process your data for purposes of handling and authenticating customer service situations, invoicing and collecting, developing services, marketing and personnel training. Your data can also be used for direct marketing purposes.

We also process customer history data related to payment behaviour to analyse debts purchased for collection purposes and to compile statistics.

The legislation and official regulations set obligations for us, as well as other lenders. We need to process personal data to fulfill these obligations. These obligations are related to customer identification, accounting, the prevention of money laundering and misuse, as well as risk management.

CREDIT INFORMATION SERVICES

We process and transfer data about individuals and responsible persons of companies in our credit information services. We provide these contractual services for other lending companies. In this context, we process personal data to identify individuals and to transfer data about creditworthiness. Our credit information services support the decision-making processes of our customer companies.

We also process data for purposes of customer reporting, customer service, service development, personnel training and statistics.

In addition, we process personal data to fulfill our statutory obligations set for credit information services, such as to save and report credit information surveys at request.

CUSTOMER RELATIONSHIP MANAGEMENT AND MARKETING

We process and save personal data for purposes of identifying clients and representatives of customers, handling contractual relationships, contact and communication related to customer relationships, service reporting and identifying users of our online and extranet services.

We also process personal data related to professional roles to sell and market our services intended for companies and for direct marketing

	purposes. RECRUITMENT We process and save personal data to review job applications sent to us, conduct job interviews and enter into employment contracts.
4. ON WHAT GROUNDS DO YOU PROCESS MY PERSONAL DATA?	We only process personal data when we have legal grounds to do so. Often, the processing of data is based on an agreement between us and our clients or the fulfilment of legitimate interests. In this case, your consent is not needed to process data. COLLECTION In collection processes, the processing of personal data is based on the fulfilment of an agreement on a payment. Therefore, the processing of data does not require your consent, as processing is based on your previous agreement signed with us or one of our customers. Personal data is also processed in collection processes to fulfil public interests. The customer-driven professional collection of outstanding invoices and debts enables lending-based finances by reducing any lending disruptions and credit losses. Highly functional collection services provide equal opportunities to receive credit and reasonable credit costs for consumers and companies. In some situations, processing is based on the fulfillment of statutory obligations. These include the identification of customers, the prevention of money laundering, responding to official queries and accounting. We can also process your personal data on the basis of your consent. This concerns any additional information we have obtained from you concerning, for example, your state of health. With your consent, we can also disclose your data to third parties. If you do not give your consent, we will not disclose your personal data to third parties. We also process your personal data on the grounds of our legitimate interests. These are associated with carrying out business activities and producing and developing collection services that respond to the needs of our customers. LENDING In one-time lending tied to purchases (invoicing and instalment service), the processing of personal data is usually based on the fulfillment of a credit agreement or a service request prior to entering into an agreement (e.g. initial credit decision). We also process your data to fulfil our legitimate interests and those of our merchant customers. These are associated with carrying out business activities and producing and developing payment method services that respond to the needs of our customers. We also process personal data to fulfil our statutory obligations. These obligations include the processing of data for purposes of identifying customers, preventing money laundering, official reporting and accounting.

	In some cases, the processing of personal data can also be based on your consent. In this case, you can, at any time, withdraw your consent, after which we will no longer process your personal data. CREDIT INFORMATION SERVICES In our credit information services, the processing and transfer of data about individuals and responsible persons is based on the fulfillment of our statutory obligations (e.g. the Credit Information Act) and our legitimate interests, i.e. carrying out and developing our services and for quality assurance purposes, as we have agreed upon with our customers and credit information companies. CUSTOMER RELATIONSHIP MANAGEMENT AND MARKETING With regard to contractual customer relationships, the processing of personal data is based on entering into and fulfilling a service agreement between us and our customers and fulfilling legitimate interests associated with service partnerships. These legitimate interests include communication and service marketing and direct marketing directed at corporate customers. We also process personal data to fulfill our statutory obligations that are related, for example, to identifying customers and preventing money laundering. RECRUITMENT The processing of personal data about job applicants is based on requests made by a job applicant who takes part in the recruitment process and/or a relationship (legitimate interest) established when a job applicant submits their application in order to be selected for a vacancy.
5. CAN I WITHDRAW MY CONSENT TO PROCESSING MY PERSONAL DATA?	In certain situations, we process your personal data on the basis of your consent. In this case, you can withdraw your consent at any time. You can withdraw your consent by sending a notification to our customer service. After receiving your withdrawal notification, we will no longer process your data based on consent. However, withdrawing consent will not have any impact on any previous processing of data, and it does not prevent your data from being processed when there are other legal grounds for processing, such as the fulfilment of an agreement.
6. WHAT DATA DO YOU PROCESS?	COLLECTION In our collection processes, we process and use the following data about our customers: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Identification and authentication data (e.g. personal identity code)</li> <li>• Contact information (e.g. address and telephone number)</li> <li>• Information about a representative or agent</li> <li>• Information about the guardianship</li> <li>• Debt information</li> <li>• Payments</li> <li>• Actions we have taken during the collection process, such as</li> </ul>

7. WHAT SOURCES DO YOU USE TO OBTAIN DATA?	COLLECTION In collection services, we usually obtain your data from the following sources: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Our clients or the original creditor</li> <li>• Our customers, i.e. you (e.g. when you use our services or pay your invoice/debt)</li> <li>• Our customers' representatives/agents/supervisors of interests</li> <li>• Through activities we have carried out</li> <li>• Other companies belonging to the Lowell Group</li> <li>• Bailiffs (execution information)</li> <li>• Courts of law (information about legal collection)</li> <li>• The Population Register (addresses and personal data)</li> <li>• The Legal Register Centre (information about bankruptcies, corporate restructuring and debt arrangements)</li> <li>• Credit information companies/registers (public payment defaults)</li> <li>• The Business Information System (business information)</li> <li>• The Tax authority (public tax information)</li> <li>• The Finnish Patent and Registration Office (identification data)</li> <li>• Telephone directory, address and contact information service companies (telephone numbers, addresses)</li> <li>• Local Registry Offices (information about supervision of interest)</li> <li>• Official sanction databases (e.g. EU sanctions)</li> </ul> We may request additional information from you, but you are not obligated to provide us with any additional information. However, the non-provision of additional information may have a negative impact, for example, if it needs to be proven that a debt has been paid or a customer complaint is founded. LENDING

For one-time lending (invoicing and instalment service), we mainly obtain personal data from the following sources:

- The customer, i.e. you
- The Credit information register
- The Population Register Centre
- Our merchant customers/partners
- Through activities we have carried out
- Official databases related to the prevention of money laundering

We request data from you before entering into a credit agreement, but you are not obligated to provide the data we request. However, any non-provision of data may have a negative impact so that your application is not processed or no credit is granted.

CREDIT INFORMATION SERVICES

The personal data we process and transfer in the credit information service is obtained from the following sources:

- The creditor
- The customer, i.e. you
- Credit information companies/the credit information register
- The Population Register Centre
- Through activities we have carried out
- Telephone directory and address service companies

You are not obligated to provide any personal data. However, any non-provision of data does not prevent us from making a credit information query or transferring data.

CUSTOMER RELATIONSHIP MANAGEMENT AND MARKETING

We obtain data about contact people who represent our customers or potential customers from the following sources:

- The customer company you represent
- A contact person who represents the customer company, i.e. you
- Through activities we have carried out
- The Business Information System
- Marketing data companies
- Providers of telephone numbers and addresses
- Credit information companies/credit information registers

You do not have any obligation based on the legislation or customer agreement to provide any personal data. However, any non-provision of the data requested may mean that you cannot use all of our services or you do not obtain information about our services.

RECRUITMENT

When a person applies for a vacancy, we obtain data from the following sources:

- The applicant
- Referees indicated by the applicant
- Credit information companies/credit information registers
- Aptitude tests and recruitment consultants

Being a job applicant, you do not have any obligation based on the legislation or agreement to provide any personal data. However, any

	non-provision of data important considering the recruitment process may mean that your application is processed with incomplete data or that it is not processed.

9. FOR HOW LONG DO YOU STORE MY PERSONAL DATA?	We store your data for as long as is necessary for the purposes for which the data was collected and saved. COLLECTION Even if the collection process ends, we will store your data for as long as is necessary for the purposes for which the data was collected and saved. The need to store your data is based, for example, on the legislation or a service agreement we have entered into with our client. The customer and the supervisory authority (the Finnish Competition and Consumer Authority, Regional State Administrative Agencies) have the right to make queries related to collection processes and present claims, even after the collection process. For this reason, it is necessary to store personal data after collection processes. We retain personal data related to the identification of the customer, the prevention of money laundering and accounting purposes for the time defined in the legislation. LENDING We store personal data related to initial credit decisions and any negative credit decisions for six (6) months following the credit decision, after which the data is erased. We only store personal data related to positive credit decisions and credit relationships for as long as is necessary in order to fulfil

	contractual rights and obligations. We store personal data related to accounting for the time defined in the legislation. We retain personal data related to the identification of the customer, the prevention of money laundering and accounting purposes for the time defined in the legislation. CREDIT INFORMATION SERVICES We store personal data processed in the service for three (3) years following a credit information query. CUSTOMER RELATIONSHIP MANAGEMENT AND MARKETING We store the data we have used in customer relationship management and marketing for as long as is necessary and proper considering the purpose of use. RECRUITMENT We store personal data related to job application processes for two (2) years after a new employee has been recruited. We retain open job applications for six (6) months after their receipt.
10. DO YOU USE MY PERSONAL DATA IN AUTOMATED DECISION-MAKING OR PROFILING?	We process personal data automatically to control collection processes and make credit decisions. COLLECTION We use profiling based on the automated processing of personal data to plan collection activities. The purpose is to evaluate the customer's solvency and predict future payment behaviour on the basis of data about the collection history and public credit and tax data. The score calculated on the basis of data helps us to select the most suitable collection activities considering each customer and to avoid any unnecessary activities that accumulate collection costs for. The automated processing of data does not result in any significant consequences for the customer, and it has no impact on the customer's rights. The aim is, for example, to foresee any cases and situations where the launch of a legal collection is not purposeful. LENDING Granting one-time credit (invoicing and instalments service) requires a positive credit decision made for each customer applying for credit or payment time. We use an automated decision-making process to make a credit decision (or initial credit decision), including the evaluation of the applicant's assets. The purpose is to assess the customer's creditworthiness and predict future payment behaviour and any lending risks. Automated decision-making is necessary in order to enter into a credit

	relationship. It ensures that credit applications are processed in an equal, smooth and reliable manner. It also prevents any lending risks, such as excessive indebtedness and credit losses, as well as any misuse. We systematically monitor the ability of automated decision-making to predict these risks. We use the following data in automated decision-making processes: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Identification data provided by the customer (name, address, personal identity code)</li> <li>• Information about the purchase (amount, location, credit type, number of instalments)</li> <li>• The customer's purchasing history using the invoicing or instalment method</li> <li>• The customer's payment and collection history</li> <li>• Information related to the strong identification of customers (TUPAS, mobile certificate)</li> <li>• Information obtained from public registers (the Population Register Centre, credit information companies, official sanction databases and PEP lists)</li> </ul> The weighted value of different factors in automated decision-making varies. However, a credit decision is initially negative if the customer has outstanding invoices or a payment default entry or the customer is minor. Credit applicants have the right to contest any negative credit decisions made in an automated process and request the application to be processed manually. To do so, contact our customer service, tel. +358 (0)2 2700 327.
11. HOW CAN I ACCESS MY OWN DATA?	You have the right to access your personal data.
